SATURDAY, NOV. 28, 1874. SUNDAY AMUSEMENT WAR.

The question of Sunday amusements has become the all-engrossing topic in New York since the injunction which was sued out by Max Strakosch against the Police Board, to prevent them from stage are arrayed against each other, and there is sharp firing all along the line. may be judged, by the extracts we reproparsons and play actors. Upon the side including "Your Life's in Danger," of the church, the Rev. Geo. H. Hepworth "Brian Boroihme; or, The Maid of Erin," of the church, the Rev. Geo. H. Hepworth

Do I want a theatre to set up in opposi-tion to me? Will these young people get as much benefit from "La Grande Duchese" as they will from the preaching of any true minister? Will a dramatic performance make them temperate, or repen-tant, or determined? How can I encour-age any movement which will take these young folks from my influence, and sub-ject them to the at least doubtful influence of a comedy on Sunday evening?

The Rev. J. Hyatt Smith says: A Sabbath concert of unexceptional character will be sure to open the door to performances which will destroy every holy tendency of the Lord's Day, and ul-timately debase the hallowed hours to the miserable level of a Parisian holiday.

The Rev. Archbishop McClockey says: I do not object to entertainments which combine within them music of a solemn and sacred nature, but I do object to proand sacred nature, but I do object to pro-miscuous smusements of any kind that tend to draw people from the church and that have the influence of rendering our Sabbath Parisian and European. I can-not indorse our Sunday concerts as they are now carried on.

Dr. J. H. Rylance takes a medium ground. He recognizes the observance of Sunday simply as a matter of custom and not obligatory. He says:

There is no distinct command about it. nor any distinct law, and my objections to this innovation are mainly that the morals of the people will be injured, and that in the constantly growing liberalism of the age the Church is losing ground. I do not argue for the strict observance of the one, day in sever compensation. of the one day in seven common to the Middle Ages, and which the historical rebe wrong. I do not even deprecate inno-cent amusement and instruction on that day, but it is hard to see where it will all end at the rate we are going. Such a step as the one we speak of will have an enormous influence in allenating masses from the practice of Christianity incul-cated by the respect for the Lord's Day. Dr. John Hall, the eminent Presbyte rian divine, says: I am certainly not in favor of it, and I don't think that any minister of the Gospel can be. In any way you put it, no benefit can be done by the opening of the theatres, and inasmuch as it tends to weaken the influence of the Sabbath day upon the people, so much I am opposed to it. I am excessively sorry to hear that any such movement is in contempla-

Dr. Talmage, the sensational Taberna cle preacher of Brooklyn, makes a savage onslaught upon the stage and every one connected with it, so virulent, in fact, that he is many times guilty of misstatement, and his arguments lose all their

The Church is not allowed to have it all its own way. The Stage fires back with its heaviest columbiads, and has two important clerical allies in the Rev. Dr. Frothingham and Dr. Porteous. The latter says:

I declare myself in favor of operatic and theatrical performances on Sunday evening for the masses. The enormous numbers of people who do not, can not, and will not attend church, demand recreation and mysement and excitent ation, amusement, and excitement-ele-ments to them of holiday and happiness. Dr. Frothingham expresses himself no less forcibly:

I am decidedly in favor of Sunday concerts, and have advocated their inaugu-ration all my life. I am in favor of open ibraries, of public lectures, of any inno-cent and harmless recreation on the Sab-bath that will amuse the popular mind, cievate the masses of society, and dispel anxiety and care. Our present use of Sunday I believe to be altogether wrong. Our churches are too few in number, and attend them on Sunday than they can afford to attend the high-priced opera during the week. Besides this, the preaching in our churches is not good-not of the nature calcuated to interest or in struct our masses.

The actors themselves load up their heaviest guns. Lotta takes up the Rev. Talmage, and the sprightly little woman handles him in this wise:

I admit there have been immoral peo I admit there have been immoral people in our profession, just as there are black sheep in every flock, but I don't see that that gives Mr. Talmage a right to denounce us all any more than it does the actors to denounce Mr. Talmage as an immoral man because there are ministers like Glendenning. The great majority of actors are poor, and it is a struggle with them through life to get bread for themselves and little ones. Yet they remain pure and virtuous, notwithstanding all they have had to contend against. This, however does not prevent Mr. Talmage, sleek and well fed, who has never known the day when want pressed him sharp, from rising on a pulpit over which sharp, from rising on a pulpit over which hangs his $5,000 or $0,000 salary, and in the most unjust, outrageous, and false way denouncing people of whom, in every utterance, he shows he knows nothing.

Mr. E. Davenport, the tragedian (who was recently here in Wheeling), at the close of his engagement in Brooklyn, made a speech from the stage, in which he alluded; to the Reverend Talmage's sermon, declaring that, in view of recent events, the comparison between the actors and ministers is in favor of the former He did not know but the time might come when he (Mr. Davenport) would be converted by Brother Talmage, become one of his congregation, and perhaps be raised to the dignity of a deacon. He was afraid, however, that a long time would elapse before that important event arrived. Clergymen were not slow to profit by the exercise of the actor's talents but, at all events, this reverend gentleman might well bear in mind the words of his Master,"Charity to all."

Max Strakosh has a few words with the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, of St. Stephen's Church, who had put himself on record against Sunday performances, and fires a centre gahot. He calls attention to two

First, That the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, at First, that he Rev. Dr. McGlynn, at service last Sunday morning, November 8, advertised to his congregation that they could hear on Sunday night in his church, for $1 and $1 50, Verdi's requiem, for which they would have to pay $4 at the Academy next Tuesday evening, when I propose to produce it in its entirety; and, nd, That a version of the requiem arranged for the organ, whereas the score demands a full orchestra, was sung in Dr. McGlynn's church on Sunday evening last by hired artists, for which admission fees were charged, the profits going to St.

These extracts will give the reader an intelligent view of the situation. Meaninterfering with his operatic entertain- while, last Sunday evening a week ago, ment Sunday evenings. The church and "The Barber of Seville" was given to an immense audience at the Grand Opera House. At the Stadt Theatre, Offenbach's The spirit of the warfare on either side "Bandits" wasjan attraction. The nineteenth "grand sacred concert" was given duce below from the recent utterances of at the Bowery Theatre, the programme and "Nick of the Woods; or, Bloody Nathan, the Avenger," a collection of sauctities which to say the least is unique

> IT has been estimated that of 12,000,000 co dresses more or less; that the spirit of conomy has, during the past year, induced them to forgo one dress apiece from their outlay; that the average calico dress contains eleven yards, and that, consequently, there has been a loss to the trade of 121,000,000 yards. This is nearly the entire product of all the mills of Massachusetts for a year.
